Brief summary of Cindy Haeffner's presentation

Editor's Note

AS they say: "better late than never"!

So here is it is, my first Newsletter that I have had trouble producing because of computer/program annoying difficulties, then forgetfulness on my part. I had wanted to send out this issue before our Show of Daffodils at the end of March, worked on it, and neglected to send it out.

There are no excuses that I could come up with to explain my lack of follow though. So here it is, and I can only promise to do better with next issue and have it out earlier.

Sonja

Spring Meeting

Notes

At our last meeting, our guest speaker Cindy Haeffner, talked about her garden and the companion plants for her daffodil bulbs.

With daffodil bulbs it is important to use plants that are shallow rooted such as Sedums, or other bulbs (tulips, muscari) but growing those in wire baskets to avoid losing them to the critters who love to feast on them.

Sedum 'Angelina'

Sedum 'Pure Joy' -- white flowers

Lone survivor (Tulip) from the previous year.
Late blooming N. triandrus 'Thalia'
